Latex Angel

Are you also sometimes bored from normal daily work. Wouldn't it be nice to temporarily escape into a fantasy world. Just sometimes during a weekend or just only occasionally an evening. Alone or together with your boyfriend.

As a botanist by profession I build for this purpose an escape pot. A glasshouse with a tropical plant cold "LAtex Angel"
During one of my tropical forest studies I discovered this interesting plant. The flower of this specious produces an nectar which ones swallowed makes the skin turning into latex as a protective layer for those specious which visit the flower and by doing so fertilizing it. As a gift like honey for the bees. So those who visit the plant regularly have higher changes to survive because of their protective latex skin. A clever way of symbiosis between plant and animal.
The pistil of the flower is perfectly shaped to partly swallow it and enjoy the nectar coming out by intense sucking and stimulating it with your tongue.
After this, the transformation begins slowly. Normally I like it to be only dressed in crotch boots. The skins first starts to change in the crotch itself slowly spreading out over my legs, stomach , breasts (which are also getting more nice and stiff then, and are getting quite sensitive), following the arms, neck and finally my head and hear. A bit of a though part is always the mouth, but it stops deep at the inner troth. But by that time normally the stimulating effect of the into latex changing vagina and deeper inside parts keeps you busy anyway.

If the transformation is for filled a nice warm sensual feeling covers your whole body.

At first the skin will be like this for approximately 6 hours after which you change back or you suck the pistil again. If you are a regular user every time it takes longer to change back into normal. We don't know yet where it would stop. Sometimes I hope that I won't change back to normal at all. My latex periods are at the moment at 27 hours anyway and increasing every week. Maybe I will finally become of latex, who knows !
In the beginning my boyfriend once took several ejaculations of the pistil at once. He was laying for two days almost completely made out of latex at bed not able to move a bit as my personal latex sex toy.
We also experimented with trying to store it in a bottle but as it worked out on my test person (my boyfriend) the result was a bit poor: he had a stiff latex penis and balls for a whole day. The only thing which was missing was the entry hole for the batteries for having a nice vibrator. I put a pair of batteries in his ass anyway just for the fun. And he wasn't allowed to take them out till his penis changed back again. Enjoyable !

If somebody wants to have some seeds of this plant "Latex Angel" to experience it yourself, please send me an email.

Drawing by ROB, Digital modification and story Latex Circle